Originally from Greensboro, North Carolina, Dr. Erin Smith completed her undergraduate education at Duke University (Go Blue Devils!) in Durham. After her graduation she earned her Doctorate from Howard University before heading south to continue her training at Jacksonville University School of Orthodontics, earning certification in Orthodontics and Maxillofacial Orthopedics. Professionally, Dr. Smith is a member of the American Association of Orthodontists, American Dental Association, and the National Dental Association. Personally, she is a proud member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Incorporated as well as an active member in her church.

Dr. Timothy Imafidon Jr. is a Board Certified pediatric dentist who was born in High Point, North Carolina. Growing up, he called North Carolina, Ohio and Indonesia home before heading off to Guilford College in Greensboro where he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Biology. Following college, Dr. Tim completed four additional years of dental school at Howard University in Washington D.C. before completing a two-year residency program at Jacobi Medical Center, a teaching hospital affiliated with Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York. While in N.Y. he received extensive training in treating special needs and medically compromised children at the Rose F. Kennedy Center for Developmental Disabilities. He is a member of the North Carolina Dental Society, the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry and the American Dental Association. In his free time, Dr. Tim enjoys traveling, working out, and playing soccer.

Goldsboro Pediatric Dentistry and Orthodontics is a dual specialty practice focused on bringing quality care in a fun loving, friendly environment. They have an up-to-date office complete with digital x-rays and photography and gag-less impressions. For dentistry, they treat all patients from age 0-18 and also patients with special needs. For orthodontics, they treat patients of all ages.

When asked why they chose downtown Goldsboro for the location of their practice. They stated, "We chose downtown Goldsboro after a lot of research of the entire city. We found that a lot of the health care professionals are concentrated in one part of town. We wanted to break that mold and bring quality care closer to neighborhoods that seemed previously forgotten. Also, we got really excited about the revitalization of Downtown. In this location, we feel that we will be able to affect change while being in the midst of cool, exciting, new things!"
